Dallas News Writer Describes Visit To Palo Duro

In an article "Across the Plains to Palo Duro," Nancy Richey Ranson, a staff writer of the Dallas Morning News, and published in Sunday's paper, tells of a recent trip to Canyon and the Palo Duro State Park.

The Dallas writer and a girl friend spent the night in Canyon with Mrs. Ed Gerald. In addition to a lengthy article on the visit to this section of the state, pictures of the canyon are also published.

The portion of the article dealing with the visit to Canyon and the Palo Duro follows:

We had decided to go on to Canyon that same evening, that we might make an early start next morning for the beautiful Palo Duro Canyon, the object of our visit. It was only a few miles from Amarillo, and we had not thought of an abiding place for the night. But when we arrived at Canyon, we began cruising around, looking for an attractive place. Soon we discovered a motorcycle policeman, descending his front steps. Right in the middle of the street we stopped to ask his advice. Yes, he knew the very place for us, a small hotel, where meals were served. It would be fine, if they had room for us. Immediately we began to fear West Texas State College students might have arrived and filled the hotel. The policeman started to direct us, then suddenly decided to escort us personally. "Just follow me," he directed, and started off with a roar that nearly drowned the shill "goodbye, Daddy," shouted after him by a small boy on the cottage porch.

The noisy herald of our arrival brought the hotel operator to her front door, and as soon as we saw her twinkling eyes and broad smile, we knew we would stay there—provided there was room. There was, and dinner was still on the table: steak and pie and green vegetables and fruit and jelly and macaroni and potatoes.

And the next morning there were fresh eggs, bacon, hot biscuits, coffee and friut for breakfast, and a promise of fried chicken and all that went with it at noon when we should come up out of the Canyon. And just 25c a meal!

In spite of the high and steady wind, it did not rain. We had forgotten that wind went with the country and asked if it blew so always. "Nearly always," they told us.

During the winter it blows so keenly that a man from Plainview once declared Amarillo to be "seven pairs of overalls colder than Plainview." Perhaps its force accounts for the fact that all the mail boxes in that vicinity are planted in kegs and barrels and old milk cans, for safe guarding the letters and the mail-order packages. There they are, propped and protected so that even a tornado would hesitate a moment before carrying them off. But they don't have tornadoes in that country, they told us.

Our trip down into the Palo Duro Canyon was beautiful and memorable. The thirteen miles over the old Goodnight Trail was easy and swift, and before descending the road built by CCC workers who are veterans of either the Spanish-

Museum Now Open Every Day

The museum of the Panhandle-Plains Historical Society is open every day of the week from 3 to 6, according to announcement just made by Secretary L. F. Sheffy who has it in charge.

"The museum will be open every afternoon as long as the FERA assistance is given to the college," said Mr. Sheffy. Carefully chosen students are in charge of the museum under the supervision of members of the history department. Both President Hill and Mr. Sheffy consider it a great privilege to have the museum open daily and hope that the Federal Government which makes it possible will continue it a long time.

Heretofore the museum has been open on Tuesday, Thursday, and Sundays, only.

BUFFALOES TO PLAY EL PASO MINERS FRIDAY

A Well Balanced And Strong Defensive Team

LAST NIGHT GAME

Baggett Gets Men Into Shape for El Paso Miners

The West Texas Buffaloes will parade before the lights at Buffalo Stadium Friday night pitted against the Texas School of Mines of El Paso. This will be the last night game scheduled on the local field. The other home games of the season will be played in the afternoon.

It is in the game with the School of Mines that Coach Al Baggett is expected to see his Buffaloes break into the win column for the third attempt of the season. The Buffaloes demonstrated improvement last week over the week previous.

Next week the Buffs leave for the first game away from home. They will play the New Mexico Military Institute at Roswell.

Last week the Miners held the highly touted Daniel Baker team to two first downs while they were scoring five touchdowns by skirting Daniel Baker's ends almost at will, gaining through the air consistently enough to be a threat in that department, and by plunging the lines for many yards.

Against such a team Coaches Baggett and Cox plan to counter with a widely diversified attack of their own. In practice this week, Holston, Taylor, Teague, and Weaver have been filling the air with passes with Cain, Lee, Johnson, and Davis on the receiving ends.

Coach Baggett is giving the Buffaloes several new plays this week to make the offense more effective. Half-spins, full spinners, reverses, cut backs, flank plays, power plunges, forwards, laterals, and combinations of both go to make up the versatile attack with which the Buffaloes are planning to greet the visitors.

All in all Friday night should see a real battle between two large, powerful, versatile football teams. Fate may determine the winner, but the fans should see a treat.

Work on Park Road Resumed This Week With Large Crews

After a delay of only four days the work on the Goodnight Trail has been resumed. Work was resumed Monday of this week and an average of 58 men worked Monday and Tuesday. This was an increase of almost 20 men over the number alloted before, although it is not expected that it will be possible to keep such a large crew at work after the men have worked their allotted time this week.

The work of patching and putting new material on the base is progressing rapidly, J. D. Gamble of the State Highway Department, said yesterday. Should the work continue as rapidly as it has this week, the repairing and raising of the base of the road should be completed within a short time.

The work was begun at the Palo Duro Park and coming toward Canyon.

Highway officials state that the caliche base is in much better condition than was expected, considering the heavy traffic which has traveled the road during periods of dry weather and excessive winds.

It has been necessary to raise the base only a few inches in most places, and there are some parts of the road that need no work at all. It is hoped that following the completion of work on the base that it will be possible for the highway department to put an oil coating on the caliche to hold it until such time as an asphalt topping can be placed on it.

Arthur Collier, who was painfully injured in an accident near Dalhart last week, was brought home Saturday and is reported to be recovering.

900 Sheep Bought By Government in Randall County

The government sheep buying began in the county last week. Nine hundred head were purchased and received yesterday and will be shipped this morning.

Sheep were received at both Umbarger and Canyon. They will be purchased each week at the rate of 900 until further notice, county agent W. H. Upchurch states.

Eight hundred sixty-five head were purchased last week.

Federal Housing Man Tells Local Men About Plans

W. Alston Jonhston, executive assistant of the Federal Housing Administration with offices in Fort Worth was in Canyon Tuesday afternoon conferring with business men here in starting a local campaign under the Housing program.

An informal meeting was held in the First State Bank, at which time Johnston explained and outlined the purposes and plans of the Federal Housing Act passed at the last session of Congress. T. C. Thompson was appointed chairman of the local Housing campaign group. Nothing further was done toward setting up a permanent organization.

Mr. Thompson states that no action will be taken until the necessary information and instructions are received. At that time necessary committees will be appointed with the view of a local campaign.

Business men meeting with the Federal Housing Administration representative included, Grady Oldham, Roy Wright, C. R. Burrow, J. W. Reid, J. H. Cox, A. W. Sternenberg and Mr. Thompson.

A Panhandle-wide meeting was held in Amarillo Monday night at which time Mr. Johnston went into detail explaining the various phases of the Federal Housing Administration.

Government Will Send Surgeon To Study Tooth Stain

The announcement was made from Washington yesterday that the U. S. Government will take a part in investigating the brown tooth stain troubles in the Panhandle. An extensive survey will be made in this section under the direction of Dr. Trendley Dean, dental surgeon and expert of the Public Health Service, who will come to this section within the next two weeks.

Announcement that Dr. Dean will go to Texas was made by Representative Marvin Jones of Amarillo, who has been urging the federal agency to assist the Panhandle area in its attempt to stop the condition, believed to be caused by flourine in the drinking water. Officials of the Public Health Service are hopeful that as a result of Dr. Dean's investigation, a means of remedying the cause of the stain may be found.

W. L. Smith, local manager of the West Texas Gas Company announces that an unusually large number of Canyon citizens are taking advantage of the change in gas rates, announced last week.

The lower rates which retain a minimum price of $1.50, were approved by the City Commission and last week the gas company began offering the optional lower rates to become effective at the option of the consumer by signing a contract with the company.

Only a small percentage of the gas patrons are turning down the optional contract rates offered by the company.

5,000 Are Expected To Attend College Homecoming 19-20

The Program Opens With Chapel Friday October 19th

The Silver Jubilee program of the West Texas State Teachers College will make two full days for every ex-student and friend who comes to Canyon to join in the great celebration which marks a quarter of a century of the life of the college and Northwest Texas.

The completion of plans and arrangements for the Celebration and Home-Coming is occupying the spare time of college faculty members. The various committees are busy in working out details to make the two-day event one of the most outstanding occasions ever held in Canyon.

The reception committee with Dean R. P. Jarrett as its chairman, is working out plans whereby all visitors will be made comfortable during the time which they spend on the campus. Mrs. Agnes Smith, Miss Tennessee Malone, and Miss Florence McMurtry were appointed to organize a corps of ushers to serve at the various programs of the two days.

Parents of students and other guests will find reception rooms provided so that they can rest and chat comfortably with their friends. Miss Elizabeth Cox, Miss Helen White Moore, Miss Agnes Charlton, and Dr. A. M. Meyer will arrange the reception rooms.

This week Canyon is being canvassed by representatives of the homes committee of which Dr. Harris M. Cook is chairman. The citizens of Canyon are being invited to take an active part in the Silver Jubilee celebration by inviting ex-students or people who have lived in Canyon during the years since the college was established to be guests in their homes. Those who are not expecting guests are asked to register their vacant rooms with the Homes Committee at a price which will not seem exorbitant to the visitors. Dr. Cook, and S. H. Condron will visit Amarillo hotels this week to secure special rates for those who cannot find accommodations in Canyon.

At least 5,000 visitors are expected for October 19 and 20, the Anniversary Celebration Days, if the weather is fair. Professor L.

The child died in an Amarillo hospital Saturday night following an operation. The Akers family have lived at Happy for the past five months.

Government Buys 500 More Cattle Here Next Week

A temporary continuation of the cattle buying program was announced yesterday at the county agent's office. This county has been alloted 500 head of cattle to be sold Monday and Tuesday of next week.

To supply this number of cattle the purchases will be alloted among those who have already signed up cattle for sale.

A delegation of representatives from the Panhandle and other cattle producing sections of the Nation are at present in Washington attempting to secure a continuation of the government cattle purchasing program for a time sufficient to clean up the distressed cattle in the drouth area.

So far as it is known here, the allotment granted for next week will be the final order, unless a continuation of the cattle program is ordered by the federal government.

W. H. Upchurch, County Agent, is of the opinion that the allotment for next week came as a result of the insistent requests which were made in this part of the state for additional cattle purchases on the part of the government.

Cattle purchased by the government in the county to date total 8,006 head, with the government paying $100,152.00 for them.

FOUND DYING ON ROADSIDE SOUTH OF CITY

Case Is Puzzle To Officers; Remains Unidentified

SUICIDE VERDICT

Hundreds View the Body; Fingerprints Sent to Washington

The identity of a man who was found dead along the road side on Highway 9 late Sunday afternoon, is still a mystery to local officers and others seeking to bring about his identification and locate relatives.

With a gun-shot wound in the left side of his body, the man was discovered 6 miles south of town about 4:30 o'clock Sunday afternoon by W. O. Hudson of Happy and E. C. Hudson of Dimmitt. A .32 calibre automatic pistol was near the body.

Officers were notified and Sheriff Bob Barnett, Highway Officer Wayne McCormick, Police Chief Frank Hicks and County Judge S. B. Orton went to the scene. The Griggs-Thompson ambulance was called and the body brought to the funeral home.

Verdict of Suicide

A verdict of suicide was returned Monday morning by Justice of Peace Fred E. Wortham, following the holding of an inquest.

The man, well dressed in new clothes, is judged to have been about 40 years of age. His height about 5 feet, 6 inches, with grey eyes, brown hair, and weighing about 150 pounds.

His shirt had been unbuttoned and apparently the gun placed inside from indications of powder burns on his under clothing. The bullet had passed through his body, ranging upward from the place where it entered, lodging in the back of his vest. Beside him was the gun full of shells with the exception of the one which had been fired from it. The bullet which had passed through the body was the same size as those in the gun.

Had Tattoo Marks

All papers or other means of identification were gone, although he had a bill fold in his pocket when found. The only money in his pockets was 7 cents.

At the time the act was committed the man had a watch, fountain pen and pencil set, cigarettes, matches and a few other personal belingings. Pictures of two girls, one of which was a Dutch girl, were tattooed on each arm.

The only possible clue of tracing the identity of the man was the indication that he was a member of the American Legion. A legion emblem, attached to an Italian coin, was on his watch chain.

Finger print men from Amarillo were brought to Canyon Monday and finger prints made of the man. Copies of these were sent to Washington with hopes of finding his identity through the War Department if the man had seen service in the army or navy.

PANHANDLE MEMBER 1933 PRESS ASSOCIATION

While Canyon and the faculty of the West Texas State Teachers College is in the midst of plans for a celebration of the Silver Anniversary of the establishment of the College, Texas is becoming vitally interested in her Centennial celebration for 1936.

This week leaders in the Centennial forces of Texas have been writing and wiring leading citizens in every community to urge the Governor and members of the Legislature to go into an immediate special session to consider definite proposals for the Texas Centennial.

Cash is badly needed in every quarter to carry out the work of the Centennial Commission. Dallas this month is to vote a bond issue to care for her burden of the expenses as submitted in her bid for the central exposition.

Judging from the comments heard in Canyon this week, Texas citizens as a whole do not want to see the Legislature called into a special session, when the regular 44th Legislature convenes in January.

The recent session called for the specific purpose of passing bread bonds, was in session its full month before a definite bill on the subject passed both houses and went to the Governor for her signature. The final bill, passed in the closing hours of the session after the clock had been turned back, was of course not satisfactory to all sides of the political turmoil.

The session had barely been organized until members, seeking to promote themselves in public light, began wanting to consider every thing under the sun except the very business that caused the session to be called.

If it took the Legislature a full thirty days to accomplish the task for which it was called to do, there are those who believe it would require the same length of time to take care of the Centennial needs, and their argument is that such a special session would be a waste of money in view of the regular session due in January.

On the other hand, Texas has little time to waste in making preparations for her Centennial, if it is to be the success hoped for by those who have so diligently pursued the cause of the celebration. In fact, Texans, have been too lax up to this time in assuming interest in what is to take place in 1936.

The nation again listened to the voice of its chief executive, Franklin D. Roosevelt, Sunday night as he appeared before a microphone to bring another of periodical messages to the people.

His magnetic personality as a leader of the nation was brought forth in every utterance he made. He did not side-step the current issues and problems facing the administration, nor did he offer alibis and excuses for failures which may have occurred in the administrative affairs.

He was straight to the point, faced the problems squarely, admitted that all things had not been accomplished, in the way they had been hoped for.

The President's message held forth optimism, pointed certain measures that would be attempted. Repeated certain statements made previously, that phases of the New Deal were only temporary and when the work was not getting the best results the course would be changed.

Continuing with the attack on stock market speculation, begun in his inaugural address, March 4, 1933, he unloosed a broadside attack on crooked investment dealings. "I sincerely hope that as a result people will be discouraged in unhappy efforts to get rich quick by speculating in securities," he said. "The average person almost always loses. Only a very small minority of the people of this country believe in gambling as a substitute for the old philosophy of Benjamin Franklin that the way to wealth is through hard work.

His statement in that respect brings to mind the expression heard in the first primary of last summer that "a nation cannot gamble its way back to prosperity."

To the average listener, hearing the President's heart-to-heart talk, there was little in his plans and discussion which may be construed by the masses as leading the nation to a permanent socialistic form of government.

Doubtless his plea for a continued co-operation and an industrial peace will be received by hearty "amens" from the rank and file of American citizens.

These Frocks Include New Fall Features

A SPLENDID SCHOOL DRESS, ANOTHER FOR THE PROM, AND A THIRD FOR THE MATURE FIGURE SUGGESTED THIS WEEK

A THRILL is in store for misses of high school age, and for their mothers and aunts, when they glimpse the new charming creations fashioned from the patterns sketched above. And the effort required to make these dresses is hardly worth mentioning. All three are easy to make.

The schoolroom borrows enchantment from the models indicated as Nos. 104 and 196. The former, an adorable frock of bright red woolen with a gay plaid collar, is smart for both school and general wear. It is available in sizes 11 to 19. Size 13 requires 3¾ yards of 39-inch material, plus ⅝ yard of contrast.

Ideal for the school or college prom is the frock of gay colored organdie—No. 196. Anyone wearing this attractive outfit would be sure to prove the cynosure of eyes at the dance. Chiffon and dotted swiss are splendid, too, for this gown. Designed for sizes 14 to 20, and 32 to 42, size 18 requires 6⅜ yards of 35-inch fabric, plus 2 yards of ribbon for bows and 2⅝ yards for sash.

And what lady wouldn't enjoy attending a tea party in the new chiffon ensemble indicated as Pattern 249? This afternoon frock, which may be worn with or without the little jacket, is designed for mature figures. Available in sizes 36 to 52, size 46 calls for 4⅞ yards of 39-inch fabric for the dress, plus 2 yards for the jacket, or 7 yards all in one fabric and color.

W. T. S. T. C. FACULTY IS HAND-PICKED

1910 to 1935! The twenty-five years during which the West Texas State Teachers College has developed and reached toward maturity have witnessed more than two hundred faculty members working together, each leaving the imprint of his personality and ideals on some of the 18,000 individual students who have crossed the campus.

Some Advanced

Some of the original faculty went from the open expanse of the campus of this college to positions of greater or different responsibility. Among these was H. W. Morelock, still thought of by students of the first decade of the college life as the best English teacher that ever sat behind a desk, who left Canyon to become president of the Sul Ross State Teachers College at Alpine, to which R. L. Marquis, the first science teacher here, had gone a year or two before. Mr. Marquis then became president of the North Texas State Teachers College at Denton.

Dr. Hill Becomes President

In 1918, the first President, the loved R. B. Cousins, heard the call of private business and relinquished his post, only to feel again the lure of the school room to which he returned as superintendent at Houston, and still later president of the young college at Kingsville. It was when President Cousins left Canyon that J. A. Hill, first head of the history department, became president of our college, for the quarter-century has witnessed but two faces in the executive office.

Faculty From Many Places

When the small, first faculty was chosen to lay the foundation for a new school in a young country, President Cousins chose carefully from the best talent to be found in Texas. He had great faith in the men and women he chose, most of them having come under his keen observation when he was State Superintendent of Public Instruction for Texas. They represented wide and varied experience but were alike in that they had all been disciplined by life, loved youth, and knew how to be intelligently loyal to their superior officer.

First Teachers

It was natural that these first teachers, who literally knew this school from the ground up, should have been chosen for positions of importance and trust in the college. L. G. Allen became the first dean, and established its work upon a firm basis of recognized standards, at the same time carrying the headship of the mathematics department. Miss Mary E. Hudspeth accepted the position of dean of women, and carried that heavy responsibility along with class, organization, and church work. In the days when there were no dormitories, few modern homes, no paved streets, and only short stretches of side walks, when transportation was commonly the old horse and buggy, and when hospitalization was limited even at Amarillo which was two or three hours away, the task of the dean of women was a heavy one.

As years marched by, every section of the United States made its contribution to the faculty of the college and through them to the ideals and culture of the region, for there was vivacious Olive Denman, who came to the department of Art from Columbia University, and moody Georgia O'Keefe, whose brief stay made a lasting impression upon many students and friends, and who returned to New York to become in a few years America's most famous woman artist.

And who of the days of 1911-12 can forget T. S. Minter, first agriculture teacher, with his small, brown saddle mare, and his long legs almost touching the ground as he rode to and from school? Or Burtie Harrison, whose merry brown eyes made practice teaching a pleasure?

From Ohio came Edna Haines, bringing the latest ideas from Columbia University and inspiring numbers of girls to become kindergarten and primary teachers worthy of the best colleges of the nation.

Emerson College, Boston, gave West Texas Miss Mary Morgan Brown of Alabama, and Vernita Stewart of Texas.

Cornell University, Itaca, New York, contributed its influence through Professor Frank R. Phillips, previously trained at Texas A. and M., and Miss Helen White Moore, who did her undergraduate work at Judson.

Nearby Oklahoma University sent Dr. Angie Debo and W. D. Mateer to Canyon, while Texas University and Chicago University shared in shaping Professor L. F. Sheffy's ideas, and the University of Missouri sent Miss Hattie M. Anderson. Peabody College, Nashville, is the Alma Mater of Dean R. P. Jarrett, Dr. Harris M. Cook, Miss Darthula Walker, Dr. A. M. Meyer, Miss Ada Clark and others of the past and present, while Leland Stanford, Palo Alto, California, was the college home of Professor L. S. Baker, while the University of California gave Prexy Hill some of the ideas which have characterized his administration.

The University of Mexico, the National University of Madrid, Spain, Peabody, and California have each contributed to W. T. through Miss Hudspeth.

So the list could be lengthened, East, West, Old South, and New England—each having its part in shaping thought on the prairie acres of the West Texas State Teachers College.

Those who have taught in the classrooms of this college have left it sometimes for other classrooms near and far, but almost all of the two hundred who have labored at West Texas look upon the experience with pleasure, and keep up their friendships with student and teacher associates here. In this group might be recalled Dr. Albert Barnett, of Lubbock, Dr. John Buckholtz of the University of Illinois, Dr. J. J. Powell of New York University, Reverend Gordon Lang of Cincinnati, Miss Dorothea Fricke of the University of New Mexico, Miss Jessie E. Rambo, of Normal University, Normal, Illinois, and scores of others.

Hand-Picked

President Hill has been described as having a "hand-picked faculty." In this he carried on a tradition established by President Cousins. Perhaps it is this tradition that has made possible the confidence which prevails between students and faculty, and the affection which the ex-students of the quarter century carry in their hearts for the first senior college of Northwest Texas, their own Alma Mater.

CLOSELY co-operating federal, state, and city police officials, an obscure gas station manager, and the president of the United States played important roles in the arrest of Bruno Richard Hauptmann in connection with the 2½-year-old kidnaping-murder of the Lindbergh baby.

President Roosevelt took an unintentional hand when he called in from circulation the country's gold and gold certificates. This made is easier for police to trace the Lindbergh ransom money, mostly in the form of gold certificates.

When the certificates began showing up in the Bronx and Harlem sections of New York City, merchants in the district were asked to keep a lookout for them.

Recently a man drove into a Bronx gas station, bought five gallons of gas, tendered a $10 gold certificate, got his change, and drove away.

Walter Lyle, the station manager, remembered the police request and jotted down on the certificate the license numbr of the man's auto. Shortly afterward, detectives took Bruno Hauptmann into custody.

On his person was one of the tell-tale certificates. A search of his garage revealed $13,750 of the ransom money hidden under the floor.

At headquarters, a taxi driver identified Hauptmann as a man who had given him a note to deliver to Dr. John F. Condon (Jafsie), an intermediary during the hunt for the child.

Then Dr. Condon himself tentatively identified Hauptmann as the man to whom he had turned over $50,000 in a Bronx cemetery, and who had as a token given him in turn a portion of the Lindbergh baby's sleeping suit.

OTHER damning facts presented themselves. It was revealed that Hauptmann, a German, was illegally in the United States; that he had "done time" for theft in the Fatherland; that he had not worked for two years, during which period he had played the stock market heavily.

The kidnap notes bore a strong Teutonic tinge. Hauptmann is an expert carpenter, and the ladder down which Charles A. Lindbergh, Jr., was carried from his bedroom in the Lindbergh home at Hopewell, N. J., was expertly built; a trade-mark indicating that its lumber had come from a yard located in the Bronx near Hauptmann's home.

DEVELOPMENTS followed rapidly. In Leipzig, Germany, where Isidor Fisch, whom Hauptmann contended gave him about $14,000 of the ransom money, died of tuberculosis six months ago, investigation was begun; the Lindberghs flew home from the southwest so the Colonel could face the suspect; police authorities launched inquiries in Maine, where ransom certificates had been passed and where, it was established, Hauptmann hunted last October; in Columbus, O., where a convict claimed Hauptmann had written him in advance of his plan to kidnap the Lindbergh tot, and in numerous other localities.

And slowly the net drew tighter about the suspect.

W. T. FROSH BATTLE SANDIES

West Texas Freshmen go to Amarillo next Saturday afternoon to play the Amarillo Sandies in the annual football game.

Intact Tradition Six Years

For six years the Amarillo Golden Sandstorm has kept intact the tradition of no defeats on historic Butler Field. The Frosh will be trying to become famous by being the first to break that tradition.

Coach Mitchell Jones, freshman mentor, will be able to put a strong team on the field against the Sandies. Of course the Fish have not had the concentrated practice that the Sandies have. The Sandies have been working hard for a month and a half, while the Fish have had only two weeks of practice.

Scrimmage For Varsity

Most of the practice consists of scrimmageing the varsity, and consequently, like all Freshman teams, the West Texas Frosh will be strong defensively but will not have much of an offense of their own.

However, Jones has several outstanding high school stars on his roster, and if they can work together, the Sandies may be surprised as they were last year when they were lucky to emerge on the long end of a 25 to 21 score when they had been expecting an easy game.

Probable starting lineup for the Frosh is:

Ends—Owens and Martin.
Tackles—Hightower and Walling.
Guards—McAda and Wright.
Center—Cain.
Quarter—Murry
Halfs—Miller and Slack.
Full—Dow.

WEST TEXAS TRAINS BAND INSTRUCTORS

C. E. Strain Needs More Band Men Yet

Because of the new and ever-increasing interest in musical education and in placing band instruction in the school curriculum, West Texas State Teachers College is training people to introduce or carry on band instruction in the elementary and high schools thruout the country. Director C. E. Strain has frequently spoken to various interested groups concerning the development of a band—not only as an extra-curricular activity, but as a regular part of the school curriculum.

Says Professor Strain, "We have found the study of organization music to be a mind trainer requiring quick, accurate, systematic thinking; it contributes to good citizenship by training the student to work harmoniously with others; it gives the student good, clean, wholesome recreation; it is inspirational; it furnishes diversion to others; and it brings the student body together in concerted action. I feel sure that the most of you will agree with me that this branch of education should be encouraged."

In regard to band instruction in high school, the State Department of Education Bulletin No. 318 reads as follows:

"For many years the high school band has been considered only as a 'pep' organization, and the students were attracted to it purely by pageantry. In recent years the band has been organized for those who were interested in playing instruments seriously, and rehearsals were arranged for before and after school hours. This plan was partially successful but never met the real need of students until the more far-sighted administrators arranged to have practice during school time and to give credits therefor.

"Immediately band playing began to improve until in many of our modern high schools we find the band today occupying a very important place in high school music and able to play scores from our best composers with a skill and interpretation that would have been considered impossible a few years ago.

"The type of music played by bands now, and the interpretation, tone quality, and balance which they have acquired is proof that the high school band is no longer to be considered a plaything."

W. T. College students are encouraged to become members of the band here. At present Director Strain is in need of more players, especially a "snare drummer." Band rehearsals are held regularly on Monday at 7:30 p. m. and on Thursday at 7:00 p. m. The remainder of the time is left open for individual work.

Usery Anniversary Coincident With Ours

Coincident with the Silver Anniversary of West Texas State Teachers College is the Silver Anniversary of Mr. and Mrs. Dan K. Usery of Canyon. "Dan" as he is known to all of the Prairie staff, revealed this to us the other day when he was setting the type for one of the stories on the 25th Anniversary Celebration of this college. Every since there has been a college paper, Dan has been the linotype operator.

He first came to Canyon in December, 1908 from Stratford. He was employed by Mr. R. A. Terrill who was manager of the Canyon News then. Dan married Miss Winifred Rudolph at Stratford, October 19th, 1909, the year after he came here. Today, Miss Frances Usery, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Usery, is a member of the faculty in the Piano Department of West Texas State Teachers College.

Dalhart Writers Praises W.T.S.T.C.

In Henry H. Lawrence's "Today's News In Tabloid," column in The Dalhart Texan, he recently gave the Panhandle-Plains Historical Museum here a boost. The museum has been open not very much over a year. An excerpt from his column is as follows:

"One of the outstanding attractions is the Panhandle-Plains Museum at Canyon which in the space of a year or two under the admirable direction of L. F. Sheffy and Floyd Studer has grown to be a mecca for the nation's scientists. As further exhibits and displays are added its position will be greatly strengthened as one of the nation's greatest storehouses of a pioneer culture. So diversified and well-arranged are the exhibits that several persons have already voiced the opinion that the Panhandle-Plains museum surpasses in interest and splendor the historic old museum at Santa Fe. Such an opinion is high praise for the New Mexican institution has been in operation for years."

"Chatted with L. F. Sheffy of the Panhandle-Plains Historical Society about the idea of a museum here in co-operation with the Canyon museum and he thought the plan a good one. Mr. and Mrs. Sheffy are two of the most universally liked members of the West Texas State Teachers College at Canyon.

"Incidentally the FERA plan for helping boys and girls through college by providing work is a wonderful thing. Hundreds of boys and girls at Canyon are paying all or part of their way through college there. Many improvements are being made over the college grounds and in the buildings. The West Texas State Teachers College is one of the best and most outstanding colleges in this area, and Dalhart is represented by a large group of students this year. Unless a Dalhart boy or girl is seeking a specialized college the Canyon school deserves their most serious consideration."

Due to the overcrowded condition existing in the second and third grades of the Demonstration School, a new teacher was added to the Primary Department. Government Requires Certain Guns To Be Registered

Pistols and revolvers, except those equipped with mufflers or silencers, do not have to be registered with the government under the new anti-crime law, the U. S. Internal Revenue Collector's office, has announced.

The law, passed by the last Congress, includes only shot guns and rifles with barrels of less than 18 inches in length, machine guns and those guns bearing mufflers and silencers.

Pistol-type .410 gauge shotguns commonly used by rabbit hunters also come within the law, the collector said. They explained the provisions of the law as follows:

"The term 'fire-arm' means a shotgun or rifle having a barrel of less than 18 inches in length, or any other weapon EXCEPT a PISTOL or REVOLVER from which a shot is discharged by an explosive, if such weapon is capable of being concealed on the person, or a machine gun, and includes a muffler or silencer for any firearm whether or not such firearm is included within the foregoing definitions."

The regulations pertains principally to sawed off shotguns and machine guns. A machine gun is meant to include any gun that fires more than one shot "automatically or semi-automatically" with a single operation of the trigger.

Owners of guns subject to registration may still register them at the collector's office in Amarillo.

It is not necessary for the owners to produce the gun, but only to furnish the government with the make and serial number.

PTA Members Plan Extensive Work For Coming Year

The executive committee of the Canyon Parent-Teacher Association met at the high school auditorium Monday afternoon with Mrs. Alfred Bellah, president, in charge. Recently appointed committees gave reports on proposed activities for the year's work.

The finance committee decided to sell soup and cookies, gingerbread or doughnuts every Wednesday at noon, to teachers and students. A carnival, minstrel and other entertainments are being considered for future dates.

The membership committee has planned a membership drive, and the publicity committee has planned a publicity campaign. It was voted that these two committees work together and have a Parent-Teacher Week in order to get new members and let the people know just what the Parent-Teacher Association is and means in the welfare of our children.

Mrs. Ralph Harter has been appointed Safety Chairman and will present a part on the program at each meeting. The subject for the next meeting is "Fire Prevention." The program committee has planned interesting programs for the year. They plan to have a distinguished speaker for each meeting.

Prof. S. H. Condron will be the speaker for the next meeting, which will be the third Thursday evening in October. His subject will be "The School Looks to the Future." A devotional, special music, group singing, and a program by the children of the grades will be presented at each time.

The Study Group will meet Thursday afternoon, October 18th, at 3 o'clock in the high school building. The leaders will present the program at the first meeting. All mothers who are interested in these study groups should be present. The first and most important of the duties of the Parent-Teacher Association is the study of the child. Problems will be discussed and viewpoints exchanged freely.

The executive committee voted to give $5 for the first room having 100% attendance of mothers. A prize of $2.00 will be given each time to the room having the most parents present. This will be given on the percentage basis.

Play at Ralph School Friday Night, Oct. 5

"Fool's Holiday," a comedy play, is to be presented at the school house at Ralph Switch, south of Canyon on Friday evening at 8:00 o'clock.

Admission will be 5 cents and 15 cents. Profits derived from the play will be given to the newly organized Sunday School in the community.

The story of the play is highly entertaining and a laugh from beginning to end. Mr. and Mrs. Bradley live on a farm in Arkansas. Tom and Thelma, their children, have just returned from the university with "new ideas" concerning their home and parents. They have college friends, Clark Masters and Bammie Bellairs, who come on a visit. Disappearance of $1,000 belonging to a school fund causes much agitation in the household. After much worry and fun everything turns out for the best—the money located and all love affairs straightened out.

All visitors are cordially invited.

Changes That Will Be Here

What changes will the old grads and other exes see when they return to Canyon for the Silver Jubilee on October 19-20?

If they have not been on the campus since 1910 they:

(1) will know only Miss Hudspeth, Miss Ritchie and President Hill;

(2) will be surprised to find sidewalks leading all the way to town.

Those who have not been here since 1914:

(1) will be delighted with the splendid building which replaced the old Administration Building burned in March, 1914;

(2) will remember how they rushed from church to store building, to court house in the weeks after March 25, while W. T. was literally a college without walls.

Those who have not been here since 1916:

(1) will remember when the present Administration Building was dedicated and that the walls of the auditorium were then shining white;

(2) will see the canna beds and beautiful trees as something hardly dreamed of in Canyon in "their" days.

Those who have not been here since 1918:

(1) will recall that Randall Hall was a barracks for S. A. T. C. boys and that there were many deaths from the flu the year they were here;

(2) will remember that girls carried around their knitting bags and in spare moments made sweaters and socks to be sent to the boys in France and that there were almost no men in school, but the postoffice did great business in foreign mail.

Those who have not been here since 1919:

(1) will be delighted to see Cousins Hall which was the first dormitory built at a State Teachers College in Texas and was under construction when they were here;

(2) will tell about the time when the first Bachelor's degrees were granted to a class of three.

Those who have not been here since 1923:

(1) will tell their friends how Randall Hall came into possession of the State, and of the change from State Normal College to State Teachers College;

(2) will talk about the days of real football fights when W. T. and Clarendon College were deadly rivals, and how Mr. Shaw and Mr. Sheffy bought the buffaloes from Colonel Goodnight.

Those who have not been here since 1925:

(1) will consider the present football field and grandstand models of convenience and comfort, recalling the old wooden bleachers and unsodded field;

(2) will enjoy the paved drives, recalling the days of hub-deep mud and stalled cars.

Those who have not been here since 1926:

(1) will think of the loss which the college sustained in the death of Professor F. P. Guenther, and of the monument to his memory which the class of that year erected;

(2) will envy the students who can see basketball games in comfort in Burton Gymnasium and recall how "they" saved their money to help build the Men's Gymnasium, aided by faculty and townspeople who wanted the basketball teams to have a chance.

Those who have not been here since 1928:

(1) will remember the gathering of presidents from all the colleges of the State when the Education Building was dedicated and will be saddened because two of the brotherhood, Dr. Marquis and Dr. Cousins, will be held here to lend their presence to the Silver Jubilee;

(2) will miss the children who used to race through the corridors of the Administration Building in the days when the Training School was where the administrative offices are now;

(3) will be unable to believe that it is only thirty minutes to Amarillo, and that there is a drive to the bottom of Palo Duro.

Those who have not been here since 1930:

(1) will be pleased with the College Book Store;

(2) will feel that students now are "so much younger" than "we" were though the records show no such change.

Those who have not been here since 1933:

(1) will wish Randall Hall had been a co-op when they were here;

(2) will believe that they had more fun and a better sponsor than any other class.

Those who have not been here since June, 1934:

(1) will see the same old faculty;

(2) will be delighted to get "back";

(3) will wish they had worked harder;

(4) will wish they had had more practice teaching;

(5) will just love The Prairie, the teachers, the buildings, the grounds, and Canyon generally.

Those who have been here all the years since 1910:

(1) will have love enough to take in all those who come "home", and their children and attaches;

(2) will be devoutly thankful that their connection with a growing, serving institution has made their lives so rich and full. 'Twill be a great occasion, this Silver Jubilee!

Well kids, I guess most of us will be gay an happy when the band comes struttin' out in them nu uneforms. We shore thank them auxilary women and them buzness men fore'm.

I wuz jest wanderin' what you all's a thinkin' of the pep squad's nu mascot, Bruce Carruth. Boy, he shore looked spiffy in that nu purple sweater and nu white pants. And jist like his pap he ain't sceered, he stood right up on that stage and stuck out his tonue at every body, teachers an all.

I shore am sorry that Panhandle beat them Eagles, but they shore put up a good fight, and shore held them Panthers back after that first touchdown.

The other day when I wuz walking down the hall I saw a bunch of signs which say, "Freshmen sign here." I wuz jest a-thinkin' and a-thinkin' then I heard someone say them freshman wuz gonna have a banquite.

All you can hear this morning is, "Did you go to the party, Saterday nite?" Or "Did you see Jack Inman or Forest Hill?" "Weren't they cute," that's what them sophomores is a saying about that costume party they wuz a-having.

Well, I guess I'd better go tend my own buzness, but I'll be seein' you at the Groom game.

BACK OUR BACKERS

Turn about is fair play so I hear. Most of the business men of Canyon have backed Canyon High School in their enterprises. They have helped buy band uniforms, they have bought season tickets to the football games, and they have taken football boys and pep girls to the games out of town.

What have you done in return? Every student should consider it his duty and privilege to back the business firms who support the school activities.

The business men who are loyal to our school are almost invariably the most active in business and the most dependable in public service; therefore, money spent with them is likely to be of value to the community.

Why not give these men our support? If it is just as convenient for you to do so, spend your money with the firm where it will be of the greatest benefit to the school.

Secrets of Senior Students Revealed

"I was born on a farm up in Iowa
A flaming youth that was bound there to fly away."

The seniors are certainly singing or writing this old song. Their master compositions of the year is the "Story of Me." Those seniors that have led double lives will have to write two autobiographies! Think of how many closed chapters will be reopened in these scripts of those senior scribes.

These stories are to be strictly confidential between Miss Goodrich and the authors; so all secrets will have to be told. Well, it is too bad, that all of them can't be published in "The Eagles Tale."

Pep Squad Gives Assembly Program

Introduction of Bruce Carruth as Pep Squad Mascot, two tap dance numbers, and a group of songs and yells made up the assembly program given by the Pep Squad last Thursday.

Bruce Carruth, clad in white trousers and a small purple, lettered sweater, was introduced by Mrs. Lee Foster. Although the newly appointed mascot opened his mouth, he did not make a speech.

Mable Schmitz, Edith Steen, and Mary Lou Vandergriff gave a tap dance number, and responded to an encore with another number.

The students were seated alphabetically in their class section before the program.

Economics Class Has Visitor

A piece of plaster fell, next the Economics students heard a crackling sound coming from under the border board, three seconds passed; silence reigned; then, someone squealed, "It's a centipede!"

The centipede, which was about four inches long, came down the wall like lightning, crawled under J. B. Pope's desk and disappeared up the leg of the front desk to the left of Mr. Pope's desk. The rest of the class period was spent in futile expectation that the centipede would reappear.

A ticket selling contest will be held between the classes of both the grade school and the high school. The class that brings in the greatest returns from the sale of tickets to the show will be awarded a prize of $2.50.

"Little Miss Marker," a picture featuring Shirley Temple, has gone over with a "wow" and pleased 100% everywhere it has been shown, and is an excellent picture for both children and adults, according to the August Motion Picture Herald. Liberty rates it three stars.

The picture itself will show about 80 minutes; there will also be added attractions.

The admission to the show will be 25c for adults and 10c for children.

Eagles Defeated 6-0 at Panhandle Last Friday Night

The Eagles were defeated 6 to 0 at Panhandle, Friday night under the lights of the Panhandle Field, by the powerful Panthers of Panhandle. Davidson, Panther fullback, took the ball over for the only counter made. The score came late in the second quarter; the try for the extra point was wild.

Game Thrilling

"The best Class B football game I ever refereed," declared Davis Hill, former Amarillo cage coach. The game was close and thrilling from the outset, the crowd was kept on its feet a large part of the time.

The spectacular line-plunging of Panhandle's quarterback and captain, Ralph Gentry, accounted for most of the gains, as did the line plunging of Willard Childers, of the Eagle squad. The Eagles were able to make a few gains on passes.

Although the Eagles were defeated, they made more yards from scrimmage and passes than did their opponents.

A second score for Panhandle was averted, when a Panther back fumbled the ball after gaining an open field.

Pep Squad Gives Stunts

At the half the Canyon Pep squad marched from each end of the field and formed a large C. H. S. The "C" and "S" were made up of girls in purple uniforms, while the "H" was made up of girls in white uniforms. They raised their arms in imitation of an Eagle's wings and slowly stooped to a sitting position, then arose and marched from the field.

After this the Panther Pep squad zigzagged around the field in lines of four, stopping in the middle of the field and forming the letter "P" in front of a flag pole. Two pep leaders raised a large purple and gold flag with "Panhandle" written on it. After giving a yell the girls marched off the field in single file.

IN THE WORLD OF SPORTS

Is Michigan Going to Repeat? . . . Can't the American League Find a Spot for Babe Ruth, Swatdom's Ex-Monarch?

BY PHILIP MARTIN

WILL the University of Michigan's grid warriors display this year the winning ways they did in 1933? That's the burning question in the Big Ten and the nation at large, with the new season at hand.

Loss of such outstanding stars as Everhardus, Bernard, Wistert, Petoskey, and Kowalik makes Michigan's outlook this year dubious. But the Wolverines' wealth of football material seems well nigh inexhaustible.

Maize and Blue teams have always boasted of great centers, and present indications are that they won't have to back down this year. Jerry Ford, a young Grand Rapids giant, is expected to fit nicely into the spiked dogs of Chuck Bernard, who has been graduated.

In the backfield, no one, of course, can be expected to take the place of Everhardus, last year's sparkplug. But Regeczi, one of the country's outstanding punters, and Renner, a forward pass artist of the first water, are expected to give good accounts of themselves.

The line looks to be a veritable stone wall on the offense, and a juggernaut when it has the ball. The backfield, with its passing and kicking threat, should be dangerous at all times.

All in all, the team coached by Harry Kipke seems to have a fine chance to add to its winning streak of 22 games, and to embellish its splendid record, marred by only one defeat and four ties in the last 37 games.

• • •

DOES life end at 40 for Babe Ruth, baseball's most colorful figure? The mighty Babe himself doesn't seem to know. If Col. Jake Ruppert, Yanks' owner, turns him out in the snow, the Babe admits frankly he won't know which way to turn.

"I'd like to manage a club," says the Bambino, "or even to play week-ends and pinch-hit." But to suggestions that he buy into a club, Babe turns the cold shoulder. "Owners have it too tough," he says, succinctly.

It would be strange if the American League, notoriously weak in four cities, couldn't find a niche for the most magnetic attraction in diamond annals.

Not that the Sultan of Swat has to fret. Six hundred grand remains, out of the cool million he earned in his 21 years of play, and that, even in the hay fever season, is nothing to sneeze at.

DRIPPINGS from the sports bowl:

Lance Richbourg, former National Leaguer now managing the Nashville club, teaches Sunday School in that city. . . . Knute Rockne once made the statement that engineering students made the best football players . . . because it takes brains to be an engineer. . . . The four umpires officiating in this year's series will get $2500 each for their work. . . . Joe Schenck and Darryl Zanuck, movie execs, have dropped about $100,000 in financing the Agua Caliente race track. . . . Table tennis was popular in Hungary before the World War. . . . Ernie Nevers comes forth with the prediction that all major football teams on the Pacific Coast will meet with defeat this year.

Man Shoots

visited the Griggs-Thompson Funeral Home to view the body.

The shoes, size 7, worn by the man were practically new, and the black suit, with a small white stripe, was thought to have been purchased only a day or so before the body was found. His other clothing looked new and he was freshly clean shaven. His hat was size 7 1-8.

A number of people who had passed the road during the day Sunday have told officers that they saw a well dressed man along the road at various points between Canyon and the caliche pit on the Hickox farm near where the body was found. One man is reported to have seen a well dressed man sitting by the side of the road south of the cemetery reading a book or magazine Saturday. A magazine containing weird and horrifying stories was found about 3 miles this side of the place where the man was discovered. A place in the magazine had been marked on a story titled, "The Coroner's Verdict." Officers have been unable to link that as any sort of a clue to the death. Torn bits of paper, evidently a part of a two page letter addressed to "Millie" and signed "Daddie," dated September 23, 1934, at Olney, Texas, were found about a hundred yards from the body. Whether or not they were thrown there by the man has not been determined.

The Hudson men said the man breathed twice after they stopped and went toward him. A freshly lighted cigarette was nearby and still burning.

Dr. Meyer Talks to Rotarians About Work With Boys

Dr. A. M. Meyer of the college faculty was the speaker at the Rotary Club meeting Tuesday. The program was in charge of the Boys Work Committee with Al Baggett as chairman.

Baggett announced that the committee would have a definite report to make soon in regards to the establishment of a boys' recreational center in Canyon.

Dr. Meyer, stating that he had worked in various phases of recreational activities for boys, pointed out to the Club some of the problems ahead of them. He offered suggestions and advice in planning a program which would be effective and accomplish the best results.

He stated that while trying to secure capital as individuals, citizens of most communities had forgotten about the "capital of character" in boys and girls. Proper environments have not been provided where the boys and girls could best build strong characters.

"Character does not develop in mass but in individuals," he said.

It was announced that District Governor Tom Taylor of Brownwood would visit the club on October 23.

Visitors present included: H. C. Persons, Jess Sanders, John W. Gillham, R. E. Wertz, R. A. Ford, W. W. Rusk, of Amarillo, Dr. A. M. Meyer and Aubrey Fox of Canyon.

An exhibit advertising the Palo Duro State Park will be on display at the State Fair of Texas in Dallas, beginning Saturday.

Maj. E. A. Kingsley, superintendent of the Park stated that a very interesting and attractive exhibit had been prepared. It will be much more extensive than the one at the Tri-State Fair in Amarillo.

Three new attractive display cases have been made from native cedar. These will be used in displaying a part of the exhibit. Photos, mounted animals and birds, maps, bones of prehistoric animals found in the canyon, small stones, arrow heads, and hand made souvenirs will make up a large part of the display.

Mrs. Kingsley will be in Dallas during the fair and will assist in showing the exhibit to the fair visitors.

Motion pictures and colored slides will be shown in addition to the display.

American or the World War, we visited the host house, now under construction. It is being built into the very walls of the canyon, with steps hewn out of the cliff, and wind-swept trees and bushes and cacti left growing at its door. From it the visitor to the canyon may gaze for miles across this amazingly beautiful phenomenon: Palo Duro Canyon, carved by water and wind and temperature out of the smooth face of the plains. It is Palo Duro that starts the Red River on its 2,000-mile journey through Texas, Oklahoma and Louisiana, and one can imagine the force of water sweeping down from the plains into this huge cavity for Palo Duro Canyon is more than sixty miles long and includes approximately 350,000 acres of land. Only 15,103 acres are included in the State Park, since much of the area is privately owned. The part owned by the State is said to be the most beautiful, and roads have been built from one end to the other. The motorist has a marvelous view of the colorful cliff walls, ranging from maroon red through lavender, yellow, mauve, gray and white.

Strange and Beautiful Formations

Strange formations, results of erosion, rise in the canyon, shapes that because of imagined likenesses, have been named, toadstools, devil's tombstone, castle rock, cathedral rock. Pictures alone can not describe them. It is the exquisite coloring, the varying and blending hues that make them beautiful. These are the same shades as those seen in the cliff walls. They tint the rocks in the stream, which must be crossed and recrossed many times on the trip through the canyon. One of the most interesting of these rocks is the gypsum, glistening white and soft enough to be carved into statues of men and animals by the skillful artisan. The guides gave us some pieces, and we decided we might try shaping the mountain boomer, vividly colored member of the lizard tribe, that posed on a big rock for our special pleasure on the trip.

The first sight one sees in the canyon, after viewing the beautiful cliffs and rocks, is the old dugout where Charles Goodnight lived for some time after he had discovered this wonderland. The guides point out the place where he took his wagon apart and let it slide, piece by piece, down the canyon wall. Long before he came, Indians made Palo Duro their home, and left behind their mortars, deep holes in the face of flat rocks, where they pounded grain into meal. There may have been years when the Indians lacked enough grain to grind, but never did they lack materials for their war paints. Reds, greens, yellows, pastels—all are there. It was the intense yellow rock here that gave the city of Amarillo its name, they told us.

Pines and mesquites, wild chinaberry trees and cacti, add a restful touch of green to contrast with the deep colors of the canyon walls. We found a few flowers in bloom, but many had failed to survive the drouth.

The beauties of Palo Duro Canyon can be described indefinitely, but one must see the delicately tinted rocks, the grotesque formations, to appreciate the charm. Because of the roads and other improvements made recently by the State, this can be done easily. Features of interest beyond reach of the automobile roads can be reached by horseback riding or hiking. Campers are welcomed and camp sites offered those who have time to stay and explore. We didn't. Anyhow, we felt that we had absorbed enough inspiration and color to last for a while, and left, quite satisfied, but planning to return some day.

Interesting Exhibits

We spent two hours viewing the interesting exhibits in the museum of the Panhandle-Plains Historical Society, on the campus of the college. It is built of ivory tinted Texas Cordova sandstone, with a sculptured plainsman on one side, an Indian on the other. Carved heads of buffalo, antelope, and reproductions of famous cattle brands used on the open range. Ben Carlton Mead's painting of Coronado's expedition and Harold Bugbee's of Charles Goodnight and a herd of longhorn cattle, form murals that depict the history of the country. Articles made and used by the Indians and by the pioneers form a large and fascinating collection in the museum. Collections of geologists and paleontologists are of particular interest.

We drove across the campus to see the two buffaloes, presented to the college by Charles Goodnight. K. had never seen one and thought them inexcusably inpolite, for they immediately turned their backs upon us and stood in that position until we started to drive away.
